Quadrille Takes the Measure of Robin Hood —Telescope and Approbation Score Again.

New Orleans, La., December 3.—Hans and Lajeunesse furnished excitement for a big crowd of racing enthusiasts by running a dead heat in the third race today after a sharp drive lasting almost the length of the stretch. Lajeunesse was a slight favorite and ridden by McDaniel. Hans, on the strength of recent fast trials and Notter's presence in the saddle, also came in for a good share of support. The pair trailed Needmore closely to the stretch turn, where both simultaneously made fast moves and, displacing Needmore, ran like a team for the remainder of the journey. The judges' award did not meet with general approval, many being of the opinion that Hans had won. Nor did the placing of Albert Star in third place please all. Polar Star seeming to have gained that position to some.

Racing conditions could not have been improved and for the first time since the opening there was a fast track. Finishes in many of the races were close, making amends for the poor horses competing. Quadrille and Robin Hood, the joint favorites in the fourth, fought it out hard for five furlongs before the Mayberry candidate gave way. Quadrille then came on to an easy victory.

Edward Corrigan's Lorimer, a son of Cactus—Rose Tree II., and quoted at a good price, emerged from the maiden ranks by beating out fourteen other youngsters in the opening dash. Stoneman, favorite, was the runner-up and put up a good performance. In the closing race Approbation again downed Flavius, and, like his last victory over the Watkins filly, it was a fluky one.

Peter Becker, favored by his light impost and suffering no mishaps, led all the way in the steeplechase and won from Pete Vinegar. Dunning, after showing good form for a part of the trip, tired badly and took third place by accident, as W. K. Slade came to grief in the eighth jump and Sam Hoffheimer unseated his rider at the first hedge. Telescope showed by his win today in the fifth that his last victory was not a fluke. He also was favorite.

Announcement was made today that everything would be in readiness for the opening of the Fair Grounds next Monday. There was some trepidation felt as to the completion of the plant, on account of the setback the workmen experienced through the severe weather. It was also said that the Fair Grounds meeting will be conducted under Western Jockey Club rule. Owners and trainers, however, who have a license from the American Turf Association, will not be required to take out Western Jockey Club licenses. Likewise licenses issued by the Western Jockey Club will be good on tracks under the control of the American Turf Association.

Many horsemen who have raced on the half-mile tracks are taking advantage of the bigger tracks' proffer to give them consideration when applying for licenses and have forsaken the smaller tracks.

NAMES OF SHIP YOUNGSTERS.

Lexington, Ky., December 3.—J. D. Clayton is training six coming two-year-olds at the local track for J. V. Shipp, Sunny Slope Farm, Midway, Ky., for which names have been claimed, as follows:

Smith Baker, b. c. by Blues—Fleda B., by Falsetto.

Grommeler, br. c. by Ethelbert—Chione, by Falsetto.

Borgne, ch. c. by Blues—Digitalis, by Stratford.

Stax, b. c. by Blues—Nettie Beatrice, by Joe Daniels.

Toison d'Or, ch. c. by Blues—Goldfleece, by Ingoldsby.

Zaffre, b. f. by Blues—Isacne, by Isaac Murphy.

Smith Baker is the name of the son of R. L. Baker, who last week purchased the good colt R. C. Raker. Grommeler is French for grumbler, and the colt was so named because he is known by the stable men as a "grumbler," making a noise when he thinks it time to eat. The colt out of Digitalis has only one eye, the right optic being out. Borgne is French for one-eyed, hence his name. Stax is the name of a town on the Mediterranean Sea in Tunis, northern Africa. Toison d'Or is French for fleece of gold. Zaffre is a blue pigment used for painting on porcelain or glass. Borgne is considered one of the best racing prospects in training here. He has been an eighth in 11½, but has never been asked to go a fast quarter. He is a colt of good size and conformation. Trainer Clayton is making no extraordinary claims for him, but says he is well worth sending to the races.

DELAWARE'S BREEDING BUREAU.

Wilmington, Del., December 3.—The Delaware Turf Club, the first organization of the kind ever formed in this state, has formally opened headquarters in the building at 1006 King street this city. The club is composed of about 150 practical horsemen and breeders and William B. Austin, of Wilmington, has been selected as the first president. The object of the new organization is to improve the breeding industry in this state along the lines pursued by the Jockey Club of New York in fostering a breeding bureau in the agricultural districts of that state.

The noticeable improvement of the horses in Kent and Sussex counties, which are distinguishable for superiority in comparison with horses of New-castle county is due to the infusion of thoroughbred blood by the sire Clematis, which stood as a public stallion in Kent and Sussex counties fifteen years ago, having been presented to the farmers in that part of the state by the late Thomas P. Bayard. Mr. Bayard had in a conversation with the elder August Belmont suggested the plan, whereupon Mr. Belmont presented him with the chestnut stallion Clematis, by Kentucky—Fleur des Champs, which was bred by Mr. Belmont at Nursery Stud. There has been no thoroughbred stallions doing stud duty in Delaware since Clematis, and the new organization has been formed to fill that want.

SEPOY IS DEAD.

New Orleans, La., December 3.—G. R. Hamilton received word this afternoon that the two-year-old Sepoy, had died. The colt took sick while being shipped here from Benning and was unloaded at Atlanta. He was progressing well, but took a bad turn last night and died this morning.

JACK NUNNALLY SETS A NEW RECORD

Defeats Meelick in the Fastest Five Furlongs Ever Run on an Oval Track.

Oakland, Cal., December 3.—A. F. Dayton's wonderful three-year-old gelding, Jack Nunnally, by David Tenny—Lillie W., established a new American record for five furlongs over an oval track at Oakland today by running the distance in 58½ seconds and winning the feature race, the Petaluma Handicap, from a quintette of crack sprinters, including the swift Meelick, Native Son, Andrew B. Cook, Silver Stocking and Nagazam. The winner is already a horse of renown here, credited by the native sons with possessing incredible speed. His victory was greeted with tumultuous applause by the big throng of spectators present, notwithstanding that the majority of these patriotic turf devotees had backed Meelick at short odds to beat him. There was renewed cheering when the official time was exhibited, which proclaimed Jack Nunnally a sprinting champion. It was the consensus of expert opinion that Meelick, in being asked to concede the winner of the Opening Handicap a year and three pounds, or fifteen pounds weight for age, was assaying a task beyond his power. Yet the better, including his owner with a big commission, all but swamped the ring with their money at 6 to 5 on the Madden-bred two-year-old.

Although beaten the Madden youngster was not disgraced, and it is doubtful if any horse of his age ever ran a faster middle three furlongs than he did, timed separately in 34 seconds, in today's race. It afterwards developed that Hildreth's good colt had cast a shoe during the race and pulled up lame.

The remainder of the card furnished excellent sport in a purely racing way, although the speculatively inclined portion of the public no more than held its own with the bookmakers. The defeat of John C. Graus, Tonic and Meelick more than offset the success of Manchester, Canique and Colonel White, the remaining half of the card's favorites.

Rettig sold his equipment today and he will retire from the saddle for good and all time. He takes exception to the harsh criticisms levelled at him for his ride on Glorio on Saturday.

An aftermath of scandal has developed in connection with the defeat of Tim Joe in the race won by Lone Wolf on November 30. According to jockey Mentry and Ralph Hobart, a former stable employee of G. P. McNeil, the present trainer of Tim Joe, claimed John Strobel offered Mentry $200 to pull his mount that day and also tried to bribe Hobart with a promise of $50 reward to give the horse a capsule before the race in order to insure his defeat. Both claimed that they refused to entertain these propositions. It is on record, however, that Yankee's horse ran a very bad race. Strobel cannot be found and the investigation by the stewards has come to nothing.

The bookmakers' sheets have been examined but it has come to nothing. The contents of the alleged capsule referred to has been analyzed and found to contain a harmless solution of bicarbonate of soda.

R. F. Carman made announcement today to the effect that he would immediately transfer his entire stable of fifty racers to Arcadia. Fifteen were shipped this morning and the others will leave tomorrow or Thursday. The following jockeys will leave for Los Angeles tonight or tomorrow: W. Knapp, convalescing from a severe attack of malaria; Herman Radtke, just over a severe illness, and Homer, just released by W. B. Jennings. R. Davis was fined $25 by the stewards for cutting sharply across Native Son in today's handicap. Harry Stover's fine colt was badly cut on the right foreleg.

Fireball has been blistered. F. W. Doss has purchased the apprentice contract on Fred Young from C. C. McCafferty. The founder of Emeryville is an uncle of the prominent eastern sporting man, Sam Emery.

THIRTY LEADING OWNERS.

Last week R. F. Carman gathered the greatest sum of money among the thirty leading winning owners, with J. W. Colt coming next, but as was the case the week previous, the bulk of the money garnered from the various tracks in operation fell to the smaller owners, the showing of the thirty leaders being as follows:

FOLLANSBEE TO RE-ENTER RACING.

John G. Follansbee, a steward of the National Steeplechase and Hunts Association and a member of the Jockey Club, was an occupant of the stewards' stand during the last few days of the Washington Jockey Club meeting. Mr. Follansbee has been devoting most of his time during the past year to his mining interests in Mexico, but expects to see as much of racing next year as ever and will later gather as strong a stable as he ever owned. Mr. Follansbee's only direct connection with racing now is his ownership of Roehampton, which he has leased to Dr. James Kerr for stud duty at Antrim Stud in Virginia.

CLIPPERS SCARCE AT ASCOT PARK.

Horsemen at Ascot Park are complaining about the scarcity of clippers there. The few with machines are working overtime in separating the horses from their long shaggy coats, but there will be any number of horses which will race there during the first week without being clipped.

Winner—Ch. c. by Cactus II.—Rose Tree II. (trained by J. Collins).
Went to post at 2:00. At post 1 minute. Start good. Won driving; second and third the same. Lorimer, away fast and clear of interference, set a stiff pace most of the way and tired slightly in the final furlong, but was good enough to outstay Stoneman. The latter ran a good race, was gaining slowly, but steadily, through the stretch and will improve. Firmament had a rough trip in the early stages and finished fast when clear. Pink Cap tired after being close up for the first half. Jennie's Beau came from a long way back in the stretch. Banridge ran as if short, tiring in the last quarter. Benrose was shuffled back soon after the start. Geer Whiz showed speed, but quit badly after going a good half.

Winner—B. g. by G. W. Johnson—Faustine (trained by F. A. Libby).
Went to post at 2:29. At post 1 minute. Start good. Won easily; second driving. Peter Becker fenced well, showed the most speed throughout and won well in hand. Pete Vinegar, restrained sharply during the early stages, moved up steadily when approaching the last two obstacles and finished gamely. Dunning tired fast after being prominent to the last half. W. K. Slade blundered and fell at the eighth jump. Sam Hoffheimer unseated his rider at the first jump.

Winner—Hans, ch. c. by Handsel—Lady Eon (trained by W. S. Williams); Lajeunesse, b. g. by Star Shoot—Arcadia (trained by F. Burlew).
Went to post at 2:59. At post 3 minutes. Start good. Won driving; third the same. Hans was saved in the early stages and, joining Lajeunesse in the stretch, the two finished on even terms at the end of a hard drive. Lajeunesse ran a good race and seemed the winner in the stretch, but Notter slightly outrode McDaniel at the finish. Albert Star broke fast, but was outpaced in the early stages, then finished going fast after saving much ground when turning into the stretch and took third place in the final stride. Polar Star ran a good race and was right there at the finish. Orlandot was knocked back at the half and had scant chance thereafter. Needmore showed superior early speed for a half, but failed to stay.
Overweights—Needmore, 5 pounds; Orlandot, 2.

Winner—B. g. by Rapallo—Court Dance (trained by R. E. Watkins).
Went to post at 3:30. At post 5 minutes. Start good. Won easily; second and third driving. Quadrille followed Robin Hood closely to the stretch, where he moved up resolutely and, wearing the leader down, came away to win with plenty in reserve. Robin Hood, running in improved form, showed superior speed early, but tired in the last furlong. Sally Preston, away in a tangle and going wide all the way, finished fast and would have been second in a few more strides. Avaunter held on well and ran a good race. Royal Onyx was unlucky and can do much better. Anna Scott was prominent for a half and will improve. Refined was away slowly and had scant chance with a poor rider, but ran a bad race, as also did Heine. The winner was entered for $1,500; no bid.

CONCERNING PROFESSIONAL TIPSTERS

At New Orleans a few days ago United States District Judge Saunders, in charging the federal grand jury, denounced professional tipsters claims in advertising and said in substance that if these tipsters were able, as they claimed, to "give inside information" as to the results of racing, it was direct evidence that the racing could not be honest and that if the race tracks were not themselves implicated in these frauds, they would not permit the publication of the advertisements.

His arguments were based apparently on the belief that the race track managers could cause the exclusion of such advertisements from the newspapers, which publish them, should they see fit. If these things could be shown to be true, he said, the grand jury could indict the race track owners for conducting a scheme to secure money by fraud, and could exclude the publications referred to from the mails.

It may be said that in general the advertising tipster is a nuisance and his extravagant claims are dishonest and untrue. But there are exceptions.
Some men imbued with honest belief in the correctness of a system of handicapping to which they are devoted, advertise and place their conclusions at the service of their patrons without the suspicion of fraud. Some others, a few, have com-federated at the track experienced in watching and timing horses in their work and from what they see there form fairly accurate deductions as to the condition and speed of horses likely to run soon.
These, when used in the interests and for the information of their customers, are legitimate and in a loose use of language may be called "inside information."

As to the irresponsibles, the confidence men and crooks who advertise in such terms as to lead a learned judge, that is, learned in the law but not in the froth of the race track, to conclude such persons have advance knowledge of how races will terminate, it is sufficient to say that they are liars and thieves in all ways and improperly out of prison.
The suggestion that race track managers are in some fashion responsible for such carrion and able to control or in any way prevent their advertising, is based on misunderstanding. A swift kick and a toss over the fence is the mildest track authorities would administer to such birds of night.

Daily Racing Form allows some persons whom it believes to be honest in their professions and dealings, to advertise in its columns, but only under strict rules which will be made stricter. No claim of "inside information" will hereafter be allowed to be printed without evidence of its reasonableness and accuracy in advance. No one versed in the ways of the track can doubt that a clear-headed and experienced observer can legitimately gather information of real value to persons not on the ground at Oakland or New Orleans. It must be absolutely of this character to gain admission. No deceptive jargon or word juggling hinting something not probable will be accepted.

Points Deemed Essential by Good Judges and Exceptions to All Rules.

New Orleans, La., December 2.—How should a race horse be built to carry weight and run fast and far? Probably not one man in a thousand who follows the races could give you any reasonably correct answer to the question, while hardly one trainer in ten could describe the points in a horse that go to make up running quality. "They run in all shapes and sizes" is a turf axiom as ancient as the hills. True; but they run in some shapes and sizes much better than they do in others.

Early books on the thoroughbred devote much space to scientific descriptions of the perfect horse.
They tell exactly what his cannon bones, fetlocks, hocks, stifles, jaw, brisket, etc., should be. But when you get through with it all you know less than you did when you began.

During an experience of twenty-five years in writing about racing and breeding, the writer has been thrown in contact with pretty nearly all the best breeders and trainers in the country. When he began in the business it was with an interrogation point. He wanted to know. A summary of the attributes of a good horse, compiled from these various sources of practical knowledge, may therefore not be uninteresting.

The writer recalls that several years ago while in Lexington looking over the Blue Grass breeding farms, he asked an experienced breeder what he considered the most essential thing about a good horse. "Well," said he, "that is a puzzling question, but if you put it that way, I should say that as with a man, the most important thing is the head. Given a good, intelligent, game head, then you can build the body behind it." Some truth there may be in that.

Briefly, a race horse should have a good head.
He should be wide between the eyes, indicating intelligence. He should have a strong jaw, indicating gameness. The wide head and the strong jaw give him a wide throat and ample breathing power.
He should be deep through the shoulder, showing great lung capacity and staying ability. He should be thin in the flanks so that the stifles may have free play. He should be well muscled up over the loins giving him both driving power and weight carrying ability. He may be either round muscled or long muscled, the best judges, however, preferring long muscled horses. He should be narrow in the fork, that is narrow in the breast, to insure good action. He should stand not too straight on his ankles, as a straight ankle horse can be depended upon to break down quickly. He should have good clean, open feet. Take a horse put up so, then he may be knock-kneed, cow-hocked, or have other deformities, but he will run.

Harking back to the theory that "they run in all shapes and sizes," the most notable example the writer recalls of a badly built horse being a really good horse was Rel del Caredes, which was bred and raced in the east by "Lucky" Baldwin some years ago and then sold to Richard Croker and taken to England, where he won many races.
Rel del Caredes was a chunky, heavily built heavily muscled horse. He was abnormally wide in the fork and, as a consequence of this, he was a "climber." Most of his action was thus wasted.
After winning a valuable handicap at Morris Park, a gentleman observed: "Ah, there's a race horse for you." "Yes," said Eugene Leigh, who was one of the party, "he's a race horse, but he wins by main strength and awkwardness."

When reporting races in New York, the writer on one occasion, as was his custom, called at the office of Mr. Vosburgh, the official handicapper for the Jockey Club, in quest of news. The walls of Mr. Vosburgh's office were adorned with the portraits of a number of famous race horses. Among these a painting of Stockwell impressed him. The painting showed Stockwell to be a big, massive horse, put up on the lines of a hackney. He remarked on the size and power of the horse, when Mr. Vosburgh, than whom there are few better judges of the thoroughbred in the country, turning in his chair, said: "That's the way with you newspaper people. You think that because a horse looks big and powerful, he must be a good race horse. It is not what a horse has on the outside of him that makes him run. It is what he has inside of him, the nervous energy."

"A lean dog for a long hunt." Owners, trainers, breeders and well informed turfmen generally have their own particular ideas as to preferences in types of horses. For the writer, he would like to have a horse of medium size and medium length, a bit thin and lean—he might even be scrawny, so that you could hang your hat on his corners, as you could do with old Raceland. Then, if he had the points as described, the writer would feel that he had a good campaigner and possibly a first class race horse.

Winner—Ch. c. by Banastar—Manzana (trained by J. S. Hawkins).
Went to post at 1:44. At post 2 minutes. Start good. Won driving; second and third the same.
Manchester drew out quickly and made the running by a wide gap, but finished tiring and just lost the journey. Import, away badly, worked through early close quarters and closed an immense gap, but just failed to get up. St. Avon ran in forward contention throughout, but tired finally. Saint Modan, nearly left, closed a big gap and requires a strong rider. Sir Wesley ran a poor race and had no mishaps. Altar closed a big gap in the last half. Kerry ran a bad race. Herives again failed to stay. Wilmore was short. The winner, entered for $400, was bid up to $1,000 and bought in.
Scratched—71970 Wahoo, 109; 71886 Friar of Elgin, 104; 72063 Soldano, 99.

Winner—B. f. by Free Knight—Isabella II. (trained by C. Brant).
Went to post at 2:07. At post 4 minutes. Start good. Won driving; second and third the same.
Manila S., away badly, rapidly improved her position and got up in the last stride of a cracking effort.
John C. Graus, after forward pursuit of the leader to the stretch, drew out like an easy winner, but succumbed unexpectedly at the end. Dr. Coleman set the pace to midway of the stretch and tired. Red Era ran in strenuous forward pursuit of the pacesetter for five furlongs and is good. L. C. Ackereley closed a gap from a poor start. Em and Em ran well up for half the journey and is improving. Avona dropped out early and is short. Silva finished well. Rosal ran poorly.

ward. Selling. Net value to winner $325.
